

Inspection of a school judged outstanding for overall effectiveness before September 2024: Manor School

Chamberlayne Road, Kensal Rise, London NW10 3NT

Inspection dates:

13 and 14 May 2025

Outcome

Manor School has taken effective action to maintain the standards identified at the previous inspection.

The headteacher of this school is Steven Thompson. This school is part of The Rise Partnership Trust, which means other people in the trust also have responsibility for running the school. The trust is run by the chief executive officer (CEO), Jayne Jardine, and overseen by a board of trustees, chaired by Christine Jackson.

What is it like to attend this school?

Manor School enables every pupil to flourish. Pupils enjoy school because they are kept safe and treated with dignity and respect by staff and each other. They meet the ambitious expectations staff have for what they can achieve, both academically and personally. Learning is a real joy for pupils here and a sense of purposeful fun pervades the school from the Reception Year onwards.

Pupils are treated as individuals by staff, who think very carefully about what is best for each of them. Pupils are encouraged to communicate their choices and options in a way that suits them best. For example, the 'magic breakfast' develops pupils' social skills by encouraging them to make choices, share, take turns, learn how to say no and acquire a healthy attitude to eating.

Pupils are also exposed to a range of enriching experiences so they can discover and develop their talents and interests. This is through the more formal curriculum as well as the extensive range of visits, clubs and workshops on offer.

Pupils typically behave exceptionally well because they are helped by staff who take the time to understand the cause of any negative emotions. Over time pupils, make significant progress in how they learn to recognise and manage their feelings.

What does the school do well and what does it need to do better?

The school provides an exceptionally rich curriculum, which is well structured and matches what is expected nationally. The curriculum is underpinned by a focus on developing confidence, independence and communication, including in English and mathematics. For example, pupils use their numeracy and writing skills to plan a shopping trip. They apply their reading skills to plan how to travel to the zoo. The curriculum is designed to ensure that pupils access memorable experiences to help embed their learning. For example, pupils build their knowledge by using virtual reality headsets in computing lessons. Activities such as building habitats for insects reinforce their scientific knowledge.

Teachers, support staff and the therapy team, including speech and language, occupational and behavioural specialists, work collaboratively to devise a highly skilled approach to supporting pupils. Together, they ensure that pupils' needs are fully identified and learning is suitably adapted to help them meet their targets. This enables pupils to achieve exceptionally well.

Teachers are highly knowledgeable and present new knowledge clearly. They check pupils' learning and correct mistakes as they occur. This helps pupils to be extremely well prepared for their next learning steps.

The school has prioritised pupils' reading, communication and language. The school uses an adapted approach effectively. This enables pupils to use their phonics knowledge to break down and decode words. Teachers check how well pupils do this and take suitable steps to help them if they are not progressing as the school expects. As a result, all pupils who can, learn to read with fluency and accuracy. Some pupils are supported to show how they understand by using gestures, images and symbols, both on paper and through communication devices.

The school manages attendance exceptionally well. As a result, rates of attendance are very high. The school carefully monitors and tracks absences to detect any patterns or issues that may mean pupils struggle to come to school. Leaders understand what difficulties are being presented and support pupils and families to get the help they need. This includes, when needed, from a range of agencies and support networks. Behaviour is excellent. Pupils are highly engaged for much of the time. When they struggle to focus, staff use a range of effective strategies to help them be calm, more motivated and ready to learn.

Provision for pupils' broader development is exceptional. For example, the school council gives pupils the opportunity to be leaders. Pupils also learn about work through their experience in the school café by taking orders, preparing food and waiting on tables. Pupils are encouraged to explore and discover what they enjoy so their lives are enriched beyond the classroom. For example, pupils enjoy performing in the choir, visiting theatres, galleries and museums, and participating in lunchtime clubs and a range of sports. Pupils' participation in such activities is carefully tracked by leaders to ensure that all pupils have equal opportunities. For some, this means experiences are brought into the school through workshops and visitors, such as dance, theatre and animal experiences.

Leaders, including members of the trust, have created a culture of excellence. At all levels, decisions are made in the best interests of pupils. Leadership expertise is highly regarded by the local authority and very much appreciated by parents and carers. Staff are extremely happy and rightly proud to work here. They feel leaders are considerate of their well-being and development by providing very well-considered opportunities to improve their knowledge and reduce their workload.

Safeguarding

The arrangements for safeguarding are effective.

Background

Until September 2024, on a graded (section 5) inspection we gave schools an overall effectiveness grade, in addition to the key and provision judgements. Overall effectiveness grades given before September 2024 will continue to be visible on school inspection reports and on Ofsted's website. From September 2024, graded inspections will not include an overall effectiveness grade. This school was, before September 2024, judged to be outstanding for its overall effectiveness.

We have now inspected the school to determine whether it has taken effective action to maintain the standards identified at that previous inspection. This is called an ungraded inspection, and it is carried out under section 8 of the Education Act 2005. We do not give graded judgements on an ungraded inspection. However, if we find evidence that a school's work has improved significantly or that it may not be as strong as it was at the last inspection, then the next inspection will be a graded inspection. A graded inspection is carried out under section 5 of the Act. Usually this is within one to two years of the date of the ungraded inspection. If we have serious concerns about safeguarding, behaviour or the quality of education, we will deem the ungraded inspection a graded inspection immediately.

This is the second ungraded inspection since we judged the predecessor school, Manor School, to be outstanding for overall effectiveness in June 2016.
